WIDOW TO FACE NEW QUIZZING

the various principals on the night of Sept. 14.

Were Together at Beach

It is learned now for the first time that shortly before Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were murdered they spent a day together at Manhattan Beach, near Coney Island. Nothing was said to any of their friends about this trip and news of it was revealed in letters written by Mrs. Mills to Dr. Hall which were made public today. In one of these letters Mrs. Mills referred to incidents of the trip and used endearing terms in speaking of her pride in her friendship with the clergyman.

A controversy has grown up as to whether "love letters" written by Dr. Hall to Mrs. Mills have been found. Detective George Totten, of Somerset county, denied today that any such letters had been discovered although Detective Ferdinand David, of Middlesex county, was just as emphatic in saying that such letters existed and that they are at present in the hands of the authorities.

Home Wrecked for Souvenirs.

The deserted farm house on the Phillips farm which was first believed to be the meeting place of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills, was nearly torn to pieces on Sunday by souvenir hunters. The farm was overrun all day by thousands of curious sightseers.

There is a report current that Detective Ellis Parker, of Burlington county, who solved the mystery of the murder of John Bruner, wealthy circus owner, may be called into the case by the new State investigator. Parker pursues methods something similar to those of Sherlock Holmes.

Ice for Indigestion

"In some cases of chronic indigestion, ice is taken internally by swallowing it in small pieces." This prescription was written more than two hundred years ago. Then Potomac ice—not always safe to take internally—was Washington's only ice plant. American Ice is made from filtered water, is frozen in sanitary plants and delivered in clean wagons.

That's why it is always safe to take American Ice internally.

BONUS BATTLE TO BE PUSHED LEGION IS TOLD

Cheers Greet MacNider as He Opens Big Convention of Ex-Service Men.

It must be our duty so to build it that its tremendous power and possibilities may be directed so it shall be as it was dedicated—to our God and our country.

"Every man and woman eligible to membership in it must be made to realize that if their best efforts are not in the legion, that its high ideals may be carried on, they are just as much slackers, just as poor Americans, as those who hid when the country's life was at stake."

Reverting to the first American meeting of the Inter-Allied Federation of World War Veterans, being held here in conjunction with the legion convention, MacNider declared this organization has "tremendous possibilities—a dream, perhaps—but in its fulfillment is a promise of tremendous service to all the world."

Hope to End Wars.

"The legion, through this Federation—not as pacifists, for we believe in adequate defense for our

Fiaince Of Collins Plans To Enter Irish Convent

By Cosmopolitan News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Kitty Kiernan, the lonesome colleen fiancée of Premier Michael Collins of the Free State, who was killed while leading his troops, will soon find solace in a convent, according to her cousin, Francis O'Reilly, now in New York.

"Kitty will become a nun," O'Reilly said. "She took Mike's death very hard."

country—but as men with hard earned experience—we believe will prove as strong, if not a stronger factor, as any international conference or agreement toward the prevention of future wars," he said.

In referring to the falling off of the Legion's membership in the past year MacNider said he was "well aware that the very definite stand which has been taken in carrying out your commands had not aided in recruiting or holding those who place financial gods as their gods, or who are not willing as good Americans to forget their personal prejudices to help serve the whole."

But the Legion's present membership, he added, "is the solid, substantial, actual fighting gang who intend to stay with it. We must not forget our great and basic purpose—that this country shall stay as we fought that it should stay—American."

Mellon Sharply Assailed

Secretary Mellon was sharply criticized in the report of the Legion's National legislative committee for his opposition to the soldiers' bonus.

"Mr. Mellon has been rated the second richest man in America, and the accuracy of his statements, in his desire to defeat the soldiers' bonus measure, can be judged," read the report, "from the following: In stead of the $240,000,000 deficit he predicted on January 24, the government showed a surplus of $313,000,000 at the close of the fiscal year June 30 last."

"This was an error of $553,000,000 on a five month's calculation, a sum sufficient to pay the first three years' cost of the compensation bill."

ENGLAND PAYS U. S. INTEREST INSTALLMENT

$50,000,000 on Overdue War Debt Today Through Morgan & Co.

By DAVID M. CHURCH.

International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The first payment by any of the allied powers upon war loans of approximately $10,000,000 advanced by the United States, is to be made by Great Britain today when the Treasury Department turns over $50,000,000 to the American Government through J. P. Morgan & Co., at New York, American fiscal agent of the British government.

This is an installment upon overdue interest upon the $4,277,000,000 lent by the United States to Great Britain in war time loans and credits. The check is drawn against the British government's account with J. P. Morgan & Co. in favor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. While the actual date was Sunday, October 15, it was decided to make the payment today instead of Saturday because Saturday is a "short" finance and market day. The British government's credit with J. P. Morgan & Co. consists of gold shipments, bonds and American dollars which the Treasury Department has been buying in large quantities for some months past. The check is payable to the United States Treasury in American dollars, not in British pounds sterling.

It is believed here that the beginning of interest payments by England will have a good effect upon the British pound sterling on the exchange market.

Great Britain will not commence payments upon the principal sum of the debt until after funding arrangements have been completed at Washington between the Washington Debt Funding Commission, headed by Sir Robert Horne, chancellor of the exchequer, and the American Debt Funding Commission.

An appropriation of approximately $125,000,000 for payment of interest on the American debt was made in the British budget, so there is still a residue of $75,000,000 available for a second interest payment in April.

Coal Loadings Increase.

Anthracite coal loadings last Friday totaled 6,425 cars, exceeding by 575 cars the daily average for October last year, according to reports today to the Association of Railway Executives. Bituminous loadings, amounting to 28,776 cars, fell 2,269 cars below the average daily loading for October a year ago.

TURKS CROSS BOSPHORUS TO POLICE THRACE

Rumored Massacre of Greek Christians in Anatolia Are Discredited.

By JOHN HADLEY, International News Service.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 16.—Twenty-five hundred Turkish gendarmes crossed into Europe today for police duty in eastern Thrace under allied supervision.

Unconfirmed reports have been received here of massacres of Greek and Armenian Christians by Turks at Ezine, twenty-six miles south of Chanak. These reports are discredited here as it had previously been announced that all the Greeks were out of Anatolia, and Ezine lies in the northwestern corner of Anatolia.

Evacuation of 400,000 Greeks from eastern Thrace is under way amid great confusion. Railway stations and docks are besieged with Greek men, women, and children seeking places on trains and boats. They are carrying with them such personal effects as they can, but most of their belongings have been left behind.

Turkish troops are reported to have destroyed the town of Killi, in the neutral zone, inhabited mainly by Greeks. Many Greeks are said to have been killed and others, including women, were carried off. The Greeks claim this destruction was the work of gendarmes bound for Thrace.

outfitted from the transport's "slop chest."

Then from the fragmentary narratives called through the ship's megaphone was gleaned the story of the trip and of the fire which broke out on the City of Honolulu. The vessel was half way to her home port, approximately 670 miles. Wisps of smoke were discovered issuing from beneath hatch No. 6. This was at 4 o'clock Thursday morning. Ordinarily a cargo fire is not considered especially dangerous, many vessels coming into port with smoking cargo or coal bunkers.

Capt. H. R. Lester immediately summoned the full crew and ordered water pumped into the hold. So rapidly did the fire spread, however, that Captain Lester instructed Betty Stanhope to telephone all passengers to assemble on deck immediately for practice fire drill. This forethought of the captain, passengers said, undoubtedly allayed fear and prevented what otherwise might have developed into a fatal panic.

Thought Drill a Joke.

Most of the passengers, men and women, came laughing to the main salon, amused at the odd sort of kimono, bath robes, pajamas and nightgowns suddenly put on display.

Shortly, it dawned on the sleepy throng that the fire drill was a grim reality.

The ship's orchestra began to play. The air was "Three o'clock in the Morning." This familiar and tuneful

VARE DIES; BIG PARTY BOSS IN PENNSYLVANIA

State Senator Was Also Head of Largest Street Contracting Firm in World.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 16.—State Senator Edwin H. Vare died this morning at his home in Ambler, Pa., of throat infection.

The end came after an illness of a couple of weeks, during which hope for recovery was several times held out.

The senator was one of the most picturesque and powerful figures in the Republican party politics in Pennsylvania, and had for years swayed the destinies of the old guard contingent.

In business life, the senator was long head of the largest street cleaning contracting firm in the world. Among the various works his company constructed are the telephone conduit system and much of the paving in Philadelphia. Early this morning a rise in temperature caused physicians in attendance grave concern over the condition of their patient. As the senator's restlessness increased, it became apparent that death was at hand, and members of his family were hastily summoned to his bedside.

air calmed any tendency at nervousness. Partners paired off to dance. Then the ship listed and the order came at 9 o'clock to take to the boats. It was all done calmly and the fourteen-boat loads faced their vigil until rescue came with the same fortitude they displayed on learning of the fire.
